THE CAMPAIGN.

Senator Sherman at City Hall.

THE ISSUES FAIRLY PRESENTED.

His Views Heartily Indorsed.

An Enthusiastic Demonstration.

The announcement that the distinguished Ohio Senator, Hon. John Sherman, would address the citizens of Pittsburgh, at City Hall, last night, drew together one of the largest and most attentive and intelligent audiences of the campaign. The Senator arrived in this city on Saturday, at midnight, from his home at Mansfield, and went directly to the Monongahela House. He came a day in advance that he might enjoy a short season of rest, as he has been working very hard in Ohio. He was waited on yesterday by a number of our most prominent citizens, but his presence here was not generally known, as it was the intention to prevent a "rush" upon him, and give him as much quiet as possible.

At seven o'clock the Central Tanner Club, under command of Col. Joseph Browne, met at the hall, uniformed and equipped with torches, and soon after proceeded to the Monongahela House, some two or three hundred strong, where they were joined by the Second Ward Grant Club, and together they escorted the speaker to the hall.

The Twelfth Ward, with torches and caps and capes, marched to the Hall from headquarters, and in passing the COMMERCIAL office gave three rousing cheers. The Seventh and Eighth ward club also marched to the Hall in a body, without uniforms.

At a quarter before eight, Col. John H. Stewart, on behalf of the County Executive Committee, announced the following officers:

PRESIDENT—Hon. John P. Penney.

VICE PRESIDENTS—Wm. M. Lyon, Geo. Black, M. Swartzwelder, Esq., Chas. Barnum, James L. Kuhn, Esq., Jos. Abel, Campbell B. Herron, B. F. Jones, Joseph Hartman, David Lewis, Thos. J. Craig, John E. Jones, James Marshall, John Harrison, C. G. Hussey, John Brown, Hon. Thos. M. Howe, Colonel D. L. Smith, Jos. S. Morrison, Esq., Alfred Slack, Colonel R. Biddle Roberts, John Megraw, Nathan Brokaw, Lieut. James Wells, Charles Wood, Robert Carson, J. J. Siebeneck, Esq., Samuel Kay, John Sheforth, S. S. D. Thompson, Samuel Gallinger, H. F. Tyson, Samuel Walker, Julius Scharnke.

SECRETARIES—R. B. Parkinson, Esq., James M. Murray, Earle Gardner, John W. Hay, Thos. Kerr, Fred. Metzger, Dr. J. H. Rodgers, J. F. Slagle, and reporters of the Republican press.

Mr. Penney, on taking the chair, thanked the audience for the distinguished compliment which they had paid him. He felt the honor deeply, because he was proud of the Republican cause—proud to have his name associated with the party which stands by the flag of the country. Of all the political acts of his life he felt proud of being one of those who had first unfurled in Allegheny county the banner upon which was inscribed the glorious motto "Free Speech, Free Soil, and Free Men." [Applause.] He was proud of the grand achievements of that party under the leadership of the Pathfinder, Gen. Fremont, and proud of the glorious triumph which culminated in the election of Abraham Lincoln. [Applause. He was proud of the achievements of this party during the rebellion, and proud of its civil acts since the rebellion ceased. He was proud of the party which still stands up for the flag of the country, and seeks to elevate to the Presidential chair the man who brought the rebellion to a close. [Loud applause.] But he declined to speak at length, as the large audience had come to hear another and more able speaker, and concluded by again thanking them for the honor conferred upon him.

The hall, at this time, was densely filled—every seat being occupied, and the aisles, stage, window-sills, and every available spot, being thronged. It is estimated that fully three thousand persons were present.

At the close of Mr. Penney's remarks, the gentlemen selected as officers were invited to take seats, and soon after ranged themselves upon the platform. About the same time Senator Sherman made his appearance upon the platform, and was greeted with tremendous applause, many in the audience rising to their feet, shouting, cheering and waving their hats. This demonstration culminated in three rousing cheers for Senator Sherman, after which quiet was restored, and the speaker was introduced by the Chairman in a few appropriate remarks:

SPEECH OF SENATOR SHERMAN.

FELLOW CITIZENS: I accepted the invitation of the Union State Committee to spend a few days in the canvass of this State, not with any hope that any opinion of mine could influence the people of Pennsylvania upon any of the great subjects about to be submitted to their judgment; but rather in the hope that by coming here, I might, by mingling with you, find out how the people of Pennsylvania would vote in October next. And, fellow citizens, I am happy to state in the outset that the people of my native State—the State of Ohio—from which I have just come, have already settled this canvass, as far as they are concerned. [Applause.] There may have been doubts in the minds of a few people as to how Ohio would vote, but I can now give you the assurance, founded upon my own observation and the judgment and opinion of nearly all gentlemen of both political parties, that the State of Ohio will astonish the patriotic people of this country with an overwhelming majority for General Grant. [Cheers.] And now we of Ohio look to Pennsylvania to see what she will say. Pennsylvania is properly called the Keystone State of this great Union of States. She was the center of the old thirteen States of the Union at the time of the revolution. Pennsylvania from her central position is naturally moved by local influences of the North, South, East or West, and Pennsylvania always decides conclusively all the great political questions of the times. As Pennsylvania goes, so goes the United States of America, and as I said, I have come here to-night to ascertain, if I can, from you whether the Star Spangled Banner, representing all that there is of honor, power and greatness in this country of ours, shall be committed to the care of General Grant, to the great Republican party of the United States; or whether it shall be committed to Horatio Seymour and the Democratic party, and the rebel element of the party that has covered this land with blood? [cries of "No," "no," and cheers.] So while I speak confidently of Ohio, Ohio now leans upon the stalwart form of old Pennsylvania and appeals to her in the name of a common country, to take her place at the head of the column—in the great center of the States that will in November pronounce for Grant and Peace upon the basis of the existing laws. [Loud applause.]

My fellow-citizens, there are some things in this contest very peculiar and very strange indeed. The most striking feature of this contest, and the strangest, I think, is the surpassing impudence of the Democratic party in making this contest at all. Eight years ago that party threatened war if the Republican party dared to elect Abraham Lincoln President of the United States, and for four years they waged a war that cost our country five hundred thousand sons and $4,000,000,000 in treasure. Now the war is over, they come to us, and tell us, "Why slavery and secession is dead, the war is over, let bygones be bygones." Yes, thanks to the Union party and the blessings of God secession is dead, and bygones go into history. Yet the American people are too wise not to learn some lessons by experience. The light of experience is the light of the present, and the American people are not to be deceived. The time once was when any party took sides with the enemy and went into a war, that party disappeared from among the political parties of the day. When the tories of the revolution joined George the Third, and after the war had closed they did not run a candidate for President of the United States against George Washington. And so in the war of 1812, some few of the Federalist party showed some signs of sympathy for Great Britain in the war against this country, but after the war was over public opinion demanded that the Federal party should cease and disappear, and that party did not present a candidate against James Monroe. So with the war with Mexico; there were many honest people opposed to the war, and some members of Congress voted against supplies. But when the war was ended the opposition party almost entirely disappeared. So it has almost become an axiom in American politics that any party that takes sides against the country during a war risks its entire existence upon the result of that war. And is it not true that the Democratic party did everything in its power to wage the late war against the Government of the United States? If not, what party was it? Certainly not the Republican party.

We know very well all the Democrats of the Southern States took up arms against the Government and did fight during the war. Thousands of Democrats left their old organization after the war commenced, and united with the great Republican party. Some of them performed their duty faithfully and well during the war, and are now great prominent leading members in the great Union Republican party. But you know that tens of thousands and hundreds of thousands of the Democratic people of the Northern States during the war sympathized with the rebellion, and if they dared would have aided the rebellion at any stage of the contest. In Ohio they selected a man who was convicted of treason to his country, and banished beyond our lines, as a candidate for Governor, and he received a very large vote, even in the State of Ohio. Not only that, the Democratic party met in convention in Chicago in 1864, right in the midst of the war, when everything hung in suspense, and even the stoutest heart feared for the result of the contest; when Gen. Grant was struggling in the Wilderness; when General Sherman was fighting far off in the mountains of Georgia, flanking the right and left; [a voice—"Phil. Sheridan," and cheers.] Yes, when Phil. Sheridan was organizing his brave forces at the head of the Shenandoah valley to protect Pennsylvania and secure a glorious victory; when Admiral Farragut had tied himself at the masthead, and was winning a glorious success—during this time where was the Democratic party? At the time when the fate of this country hung suspended in the balance, when a single defeat might have swept the American flag from among the flags of nations; while the Democratic party raised the white flag in Chicago, and demanded peace on any terms and a cessation of hostilities, Horatio Seymour presided in that convention, and he is now nominated as a candidate for the office of President of the United States. [Hisses.]

Have you ever thought what would have been the result if the Democracy had been successful in 1864? What would have been the fate of our happy land? No wonder that these people say, "let bygones be bygones." They ought to let bygones be bygones, and they, as a political party, ought to disappear, and never again appear upon the political stage. [Cheers.] They ought to disband their political organization, and the members of the organization ought to take their places in our organization to fight the great battles in the future. The Democratic party deserted the country, and can never wipe out the stain of that recollection. But yet, fellow-citizens, this same party, with the selfsame leaders, with the President of the Chicago Convention as their candidate, reinforced by all the rebels of the South, come before the American people and ask to be intrusted with the power of controlling this great country. If that impudence does not exceed anything that ever occurred outside of hell, I would like to know what does. [Laughter and cheers.]

There is another peculiar fact in this contest, and I wish to submit it to you before I go any further. Why a wise, sedate and able leader of the Democratic party knew the American people would never entrust that party with power until they changed their candidates and principles, and threw off the old skin, put on a new one, and called themselves by some other name. Therefore it was that the Democratic party desired in wise men of the Democratic party desired in New York to establish a change, and throw off the taint of rebellion, and get up new issues upon which they could divide the American people. If the Democratic party could have been led by its wise men they would never have appeared as they do before the American people. But they were overruled in all this. They were overruled by the copperheadism of Vallandigham and the rebel element of the Southern States led by Forrest and Hampton. The wise men of the party knew it was political death to go before the country upon their old principles. But these copperhead leaders would not allow the wise men to govern the convention, and therefore the party was controlled by fools and rebels, and is to be consigned to its last resting place. That Convention in New York was a singular mixture of all sorts of people, some white, some black. [A voice, Williams.] In fact, all sorts of people. They were looking for a candidate. If they desired to present a new issue to the people, how easily they could do it. There is my friend, Mr. Pendleton, of Ohio; plausible and young, he thought he had found "a new way to pay old debts," and called it a "greenback issue." He was anxious to go before the people upon the "greenback issue," turning his back upon all other issues of the war. What did they do with Pendleton? They laid him upon the shelf after the second day, and he did not have any more chance after that for the nomination than I had, and I don't think I had much. [Laughter and applause.] Who was the next candidate? A man from your own State, who in many battles rendered valuable services to your country, a man that would like to have redeemed the Democratic party from the taint upon its life. It was your own General Hancock, of Pennsylvania. How was he received? Why, sir, he had not half as much chance for nomination as I had, because I was the friend of one of the candidates for the Presidency, and I don't think he was the friend of any of them. [Laughter.] I said they laid Hancock on the shelf. There was a plausible gentleman from Indiana—a man so pleasant that butter would melt if it came in sight of him—a man who, if necessary, would climb a greased pole and deceive the people by smooth speeches. He was proposed by the State of Indiana, and what was his vote? It was found that he had never uttered any sentiments against the Union cause; that he had voted supplies for soldiers during the war, and showed some signs of friendship for the Union cause, and he was laid upon the shelf as never to be a candidate. Who next? These wise men thought it would be best to abandon the political organization, and nominating a man upon broad, living issues, and a man who would answer their purpose. And such a man was found in the person of Chief Justice Chase. If they had placed Chief Justice Chase in nomination, the people would have looked upon that act as some atonement for a portion of the wickedness of the war, and they might have hoped under the guidance of Chief Justice Chase the Democratic party would be true and loyal to the Government; but the precise strength of Chief Justice Chase has never been ascertained. I believe his highest vote was not over three and a quarter. It wandered in devious ways in search of a candidate, like Japhet in search of his father, and they hit upon Seymour—the hero of the New York rioters. [Cheers.] The man who addressed those rioters as his friends, when their hands were red with the blood of innocent women and children. A man who never during the war breathed an aspiration for the Union cause, for the Union army. But that was not the most significant fact that occurred, by any means. It was their last resort—he was nominated. Then it became necessary to nominate a candidate for Vice President, and the people of the United States, from the sad experience of the Republicans, have learned to be cautious in this respect. The members of the Convention looked carefully. There was nominated a candidate for the Vice-Presidency by the soldiers and sailors who were in attendance at the Chicago Convention (a very bad place for Union soldiers and sailors in 1864—there were about one hundred rebel soldiers in that Convention). But the soldiers organized outside and asked a candidate for the Vice Presidency. They nominated Thomas Ewing, Jr., a soldier, and presented him as the choice of the Union soldiers of the party, and how was he received? Why he was not received at all, and did not get a single vote in that Convention; and Frank Blair was nominated by the Democratic party for the office of Vice President of the United States. When I come to look upon Frank Blair, I look upon him in two different capacities. I knew him for many years. He was in accordance with those gentlemen around him. I knew him as a fierce, black Republican, in the days when the term of "black Republican" was a fierce reproach. No man was more fierce in denunciation of the Democratic party. He and his brother had quarreled with the Democratic party, and was true, and for a long time was true. He was brave. I often look upon Frank Blair as a soldier—as a man who has rendered service to the country. On the other hand, there is no more dangerous man in this country of ours than this same Frank Blair. He got into a quarrel with his political friends in Missouri, and he carried that quarrel into the politics of the country. While he loves fervently, he hates fiercely, and no person would trust him with business that required sagacity, prudence or discretion in public or private life. They may admire his courage, his frankness, but no man would trust him in the high position of a statesman, simply because of these faults he possesses. A few days before the Convention met in New York, he announced himself as a candidate for the Presidency or Vice Presidency, he did not care much which. [Laughter.] He wanted to get upon the Democratic ticket. And in that letter to Colonel Brodhead he uttered sentiments more atrocious than were ever uttered by an American citizen. He declared there was no question in this canvass except the question of reconstruction; that it was the duty of the people to elect a President who would disperse the "carpet-bag" governments, and declare all the acts of reconstruction null, void and revolutionary. He would admit rebels to the House of Representatives, and then compel the Senate to overturn and undo their work in the South. I should like to see them compel General Grant and Sherman and Sheridan to turn over the power to those States that have rebelled. They cannot be compelled to do it. [Applause.] Frank Blair knew how to touch in that letter the temper of the Democratic Convention. He would never have been voted for in that Convention but for this letter to Col. Broadhead. That gave him the nomination. What next occurred in that convention. Because there we must find the center of the great questions about to be submitted to you. When they formed the platform it was formed by a committee of one from each State. There is no doubt about the spirit of that platform. In fact, I have seen so much of political platforms that I have come to look upon them as the greatest cheat that can be presented to the people. The Democratic platform contains some principles which all persons are bound to admit. One principle is that the question of suffrage must be left to the people of the States—each State to decide for itself—Pennsylvania for itself, Ohio for itself, and so with all the States entitled to representation.

General Wade Hampton appears upon the platform; the man who represents in his person the death of thousands of our brave soldiers. If there are any soldiers, and I know there are some in the sound of my voice, they will remember this man Wade Hampton, merciless, dealing right and left, sparing none, either sick or wounded, carrying on the war in the most merciless way. He said to the politicians of the North, write over these truisms something else. What States do you mean, the States now existing in the Southern States or the States as they existed in 1865? All I want, said General Hampton is to declare that the States as they existed in 1865 shall be entitled to representation. Then these politicians said to General Hampton—this unwhipped rebel—"why, General, we will do anything you desire us to, but you must remember we have a very hard fight in the Northern States; if we say this in the platform we will lose strength." "Well," said the General, "if you will allow me to write three words in the platform I will be satisfied." So General Hampton declared that the acts of reconstruction are unconstitutional, null and void. And those three words contained the whole burden of the contest, and the only question to be submitted to the American people to be decided upon is contained in that proposition laid down by General Wade Hampton. The candidates were nominated by rebels. Blair was nominated by Preston, seconded by Forrest, thirded by Hampton and fourthed by a rebel General from Georgia—by a General Battles, or some such name. [Laughter.] The rebels of the South nominated him, and now to-day patriotic Democrats are compelled to choose whether or not they will follow these rebels in this platform and in the nomination of these candidates, or whether they will follow the great Union party of the United States, under the leadership of Gen. Grant.

Now, fellow-citizens, I want to submit one or two observations in regard to the reconstruction acts that are referred to in this platform. What do you mean by the Congressional plan of reconstruction? What is it? Why, sir, it is even spoken of as some "bug-a-boo" that nobody understands. I think I can explain it as I have it here. The whole plan of reconstruction is comprised in the 13th and 14th articles of the amendment, as proposed by Congress. Various acts of Congress were passed to aid in the adoption of these amendments. Those acts were the mere scaffolding to aid in the completion of this work. I aided in framing the act passed in March, 1867. That act was preparatory to the Constitutional amendment No. 14. There is not one single clause or section or part of the reconstruction acts that stand in force this day except the 13th and 14th articles of amendment. All the rest have answered their purpose. They were a mere scaffolding, temporary in character, and now displaced. What is now left? The 13th article of amendment prohibits slavery in the United States of America, nothing more or less. It has been adopted by nearly all the Northern States and a part of the Southern States, and if these acts are swept away by the fiat of the Democratic party, the 13th article will be swept away and so will the 14th. The first clause of the 14th article declares that all persons naturalized under the laws shall be citizens of the United States and of the State in which they reside, and be entitled to equal protection wherever they may go in the United States of America. [Cheers.] Who objects to that? What is the second clause of the article of amendment? It simply provides that each State shall be entitled to proper representation, just as the present constitution provides when any State has in its locality any population that are not entitled to vote, that population shall not be entitled to representation. It is applied to all parts of the United States—Pennsylvania as well as South Carolina and Georgia. What is the reason of this? Why, under the old system, the negroes were counted by the three-fifths rule, and were represented by the whites. The result of this constitutional amendment is to change the old rule, that every white man in the State of Georgia was equivalent to two white men in Pennsylvania. We did not wish to interfere with the power of any State in the control of the elective franchise, but we said that any State that had within its borders those not entitled to the power, we did not want them counted, so that every white man would count precisely the same—no more, no less. What was the next clause of this amendment? It simply declares that the rebel debt shall never be recognized by Congress, and appropriations shall never be made to pay any portion of it or to pay for slaves emancipated during the war, but that the public debt and the payment of pensions to our soldiers shall remain inviolate. This is the only security we have for the public debt. This is the constitutional amendment briefly stated. Now mark it. This amendment was submitted to the people of the United States. Every man two years ago in the United States had an opportunity to vote for or against it at the election of members of Congress or the election of members of the Legislature. What was the result of that vote? Why, sir, every Northern State, including even the Democratic State of New Jersey, voted for that amendment. It was adopted by every State that cast a vote on the subject north of Mason and Dixon's Line. And, my friends, but for the opposition of Andy Johnson, it would have been adopted. But he used his power to defeat the amendment in the Southern States. Then in order to secure the adoption of that amendment, we passed the reconstruction acts and submitted the constitutional amendment to the Southern States. Under that plan eight of those States have been organized and have voted for the constitutional amendment, and it is now the only protection we have against the power of rebels coming back into Congress. It is the only security the white citizen of the North has in going South. If the Democratic party should succeed in its schemes we will be left in chaos and disorder again. This is the great question submitted to the people.

The speaker then said that there was another branch of this subject to which he wished to call their attention, and that was the state of public feeling at the South. He stated that there was great diversity of opinion as to this state of affairs, but the evidences were becoming too clear to admit of any doubt. He then quoted from the declarations of the pirate Semmes, called a "rebel" in the North and an "Admiral" in the South. He also read from General Blair's organ extracts declaring that if Seymour and Blair are elected the reconstruction acts will be utterly overturned and annulled, and that if Seymour attempted to shape the rough corners of Blair's platform, he would find his Booth as Lincoln had found his. Also, the declarations of Southern papers, that if Seymour and Blair would be elected the "lost cause" would be regained, and a new revolution inaugurated.

The speaker then read extracts from the report to the Tennessee Legislature, showing that outrages upon and murders of Union men, both white and black, were very frequent in that State, and were instigated and executed by members of the Ku-Klux-Klan. There were organized rebels there, killing negroes, burning school houses, and aiding the work of desolation in every form. If Governor Seymour were elected President of the United States, what would be the result? Those who have gone to the South, and I know there are many who have done so, will have their houses burned and their property confiscated. The four millions of negro people who have been emancipated by our policy, and are now free, will be reduced to slavery again, and have an oppression heaped upon them greater than they had before. We will be in a state of disturbance all over this country. I cannot bear to think of the miserable state to which the Union men of the South would be consigned in such an event. We have all been warned by speeches of Howell Cobb and others as to the spirit which animates the South, and as to the result of Seymour's election. On the other hand, if Grant be elected the work of reconstruction will be quietly finished. We will then have peace, quiet and order all over this country. Your industrious people of Pittsburgh and the people of the entire country, can go on extending your great industries all over the land. [Applause.]

While this is the great issue, and the only issue that ought to be discussed before you, we have a cry of distress from Governor Seymour, the candidate of the Democratic party, which it is well enough for you to notice. It is published in your morning papers, and there I see it for the first time. What does Governor Seymour say? He says to a friend who wrote him a letter, "you have got me into a terrible trouble, and I do not know how to get out of it, but I will do the best I can to do so." Then he says, "Urge the Radicals to talk about Debt and Taxation." Well, my friends, we do not avoid the financial question. We are ready to meet every question presented by the Democratic party. The Republican party has, during the war and since the war, presented great financial questions. We found our Government in terrible disorder—no money in the Treasury and a slaveholders' rebellion upon our hands. We borrowed immense sums of money, and we improvised a kind of currency called "greenbacks." Why, we are the daddies of greenbacks. I presume you remember when Democrats said greenbacks were worth nothing, and were unconstitutional, and they expected to buy them by the cord. Then we devised a system of taxation on imported goods, from which an immense revenue was derived. This also tended to protect our home manufactures by giving them the market. We doubled the manufactories of this country, and extended mines, furnaces and workshops all over the land. We have built since the beginning of the war more than ten thousand miles of railroad. We have extended the telegraph, and developed the internal resources of the country, even to the discovery in Pennsylvania of a natural product called petroleum, which goes far to supply the absence of cotton in producing a foreign trade. We have made greater advancement than at any other period in American history.

But they say we must talk about debt and taxation. Well suppose we talk about them. We have a large National debt, and who created it? The Democratic party. If even-handed justice should be done in this country, as it will be done in the day of judgment, the Democratic party would have to pay every dollar of this debt. [Cheers.]

The speaker next discussed the subject of taxation at considerable length, proving by statistics that while it was claimed we were burdened by taxation, there was really no tax upon the industrial and agricultural interests of the country. Relative to the charge of extravagance on the part of Congress, he proved by an authentic and extensive array of figures that the expenses of Government during the last three years had only been $400,000,000, an average of about $133,000,000 per year, instead of $300,000,000 per year, as was claimed by Democratic orators. He considered this talk about financial extravagance as purest buncome, and said his friend, Gen. Moorhead, who had been an able member of the Committee on Ways and Means, would sustain him in this statement. He then paid a high compliment to Gen. Moorhead, whom he saw present, and said he had faithfully attended to the interests of Pittsburgh, [cheers] and so he had no doubt Gen. Negley will in the future, as his successor.

It is for you to say whether this Republican party which has carried you through a great war, which has done all that it has promised to do, which has maintained the flag of the country at the time when all Europe said this Government was to crumble into ashes; the party that has wiped out forever every stain upon our national honor; a party that has done more for our citizens than all other parties in this Government to this time; a party that is composed of the great mass of the laboring American people of the Northern States; a party that is composed of industry of the Middle States; a party that has furnished ninety out of every hundred of the brave soldiers that served under the flag of our country; [applause] a party that never furnished a rebel or a traitor; a party that has never known defeat when fighting under the lead of General Grant—the great Union National Republican party will govern this country, my friends, until the Democratic party learn more wisdom than they seem likely to learn for some time.

President Lincoln used to relate a story about its being unsafe to swap horses when crossing a stream, and, my friends, we are only crossing the stream. This fall is one of the most important in American history. We must close the work we have commenced. Not until the constitutional amendment is recognized by every department of the government; not until the loyal citizen of the North can build his cabin in South Carolina and raise the flag of his country without fear of molestation, will our work be finished. This can never be done under Democratic rule.

The speaker next referred to the candidates, comparing Seymour's correspondence with the brief and expressive letters of Gen. Grant. He also eulogized Speaker Colfax, whom he had known from his entrance into political life, and traced his brilliant successes. If in the providence of Almighty God, the hand of the assassin should take from us our President a second time, Schuyler Colfax would never betray his party or his country.

Now, gentlemen, with such principles and such surroundings, a Republican can enter the canvass doubly armed and assured of victory. There is something in the public mind, which in the progress of a canvass seizes the strong points, and, sir, knowing we stand upon the rock of truth, I have no more doubt of the result of the election than I have that I am standing to-night in the city of Pittsburgh. The first wave of popular opinion came to us from the State of Vermont. [Cheers.] It took the wind out of a great many sails. [Laughter.] We will hear in a few days more—mark my words, only a few days—of fifteen or twenty thousand majority in Maine. [Applause.] We will hear from State after State as they come into the great council chamber of the nation and record their ballots, and I believe there will be scarcely anything left of this copperhead Democratic party after the second Tuesday of October next. Then Governor Seymour's aspirations will be gratified, and he will be permitted to remain at home in peace. [Tremendous applause.]

In conclusion the speaker thanked his audience for their attention, and expressed the hope that he would be able to meet them on some future occasion. He then retired amid great enthusiasm.

Thomas M. Marshall, Esq., was then loudly called upon, but declined to make a speech, as he had to go on duty at Kittanning to-day. But he promised to speak to them soon, in this hall, or some other place, and lay fully before them his views on Reconstruction—the only real question now before the country. He had been speaking for twenty years, and intended to quit after the present campaign was over, when the Democratic party would be dead and buried out of sight. [Applause.] After some further remarks, Mr. Marshall concluded and "pushed into the service" Hon. George V. Lawrence, of Washington county.

Mr. Lawrence spoke but a few minutes, as it was twenty minutes past ten when he commenced, and the audience (as he stated) could not be expected to remain much longer in the hall. His remarks, however, were attentively listened to and well received. At the close of his remarks the meeting dispersed with three cheers for Grant and Colfax.

DIED.

KIRSH—On Sunday, September 6th, 1868, Mrs. JULIANA KIRSH, in the forty-second year of her age.

The funeral will take place from the residence of her husband, Mr. Frederick Kirsh, on the Perrysville Plankroad, on WEDNESDAY, the 9th inst., at 2 o'clock P. M. Carriages will leave from No. 532 Penn street, at 1 o'clock. Relatives and friends are respectfully invited.

COE'S DYSPEPSIA CURE

"CONSIDERABLE MERIT."

[From O. O. Twing, M. D., New Philadelphia, O.]

NEW PHILADELPHIA, OHIO,
December 21, 1864.

MR. CLARK: I am acquainted with several persons who have used Coe's Dyspepsia Cure, and from their testimony I am convinced that the medicine possesses considerable merit. I should be glad to recommend it to my patients who may need such a medicine, and also to use, when occasion may require, in my own practice; but our code of ethics, to which I freely subscribed, disallows me to use a medicine the ingredients of which I am unacquainted with. Most manufacturers of proprietary medicines do not hesitate to furnish their formulas to physicians, and if you are one of those, please send me your formula, and it is quite likely that it will lead to the sale of a few bottles, to say the least. I would suggest that it would be advisable to make depositories of the medicine in more places than you have in this State. There are many flourishing towns, where your medicine cannot yet be found, and where, I have no doubt, from what I know of the medicine, they would have a large sale. If you do not wish to have your complete formula known, please state the ingredients composing it.

O. O. THWING, M. D.

"A VALUABLE THING."

[From James M. Clark, Baldwinsville, N. Y.]

GENTS: Allow me to say that, although, as a general thing, I have a pretty poor opinion of patent medicine, still I am disposed to regard your "Coe's Dyspepsia Remedy" as a valuable thing. From boyhood I have been troubled with the most terrible turns of sick headache that ever fell to the lot of suffering humanity, and, although I have swallowed almost every known specific for this disease, none has ever seemed to permanently benefit me but this "Coe's Dyspepsia Cure." I have not yet taken quite a bottle, and since I have commenced its use I have not had even a symptom of the headache. This is two months since. Previous to that I usually had it at least once a week, sometimes twice.

Respectfully, JAMES M. CLARK.

"THE BEST ARTICLE."

[From T. J. Rand, Muskegon, Mich.]

MUSKEGON, MICH., May 27, 1867.

Messrs. C. G. CLARK & CO.:

Having used Coe's Dyspepsia Cure, I can recommend it to all who are troubled with that complaint. It cured me after having suffered for ten years, and tried many other remedies without receiving any relief. I believe it to be the best article before the people for the cure of Dyspepsia.

Yours, &c.,

T. J. RAND,
Banker, Muskegon, Mich.

"A PERFECT CURE."

[From J. H. Moulton, Battle Creek, Mich.]

BATTLE CREEK, May 5, 1868.

Messrs. ANDREWS & GRANDINE, Druggists:

In reply to your inquiry as to results in using the bottle of Coe's Dyspepsia Cure we purchased from you, we take the first opportunity to state that having used it for Indigestion, I can certify that in my case it has proved itself a perfect cure.

I most cheerfully and earnestly recommend it to every one who has suffered from the ravages and horrors of this terrible disease. Yours truly,

JOHN F. MOULTON.

"INSTANT RELIEF."

[From J. W. Niel, M. D., Delaware, Ohio.]

Messrs. CONNELL & CO., Druggists:

In reply to your inquiry as to results in using the bottle of Coe's Dyspepsia Cure we purchased from you, we take the first opportunity to state that, for a young man, I am an old Dyspeptic, and have tried almost everything in the line of prescriptions and formulas, from physicians and books, and never found anything to equal Coe's Dyspepsia Cure. The first dose I took of the Cure, I felt almost instant relief, and went about my business in a happier mood than I had for years before. After finishing one bottle, I arrived at the happy conclusion that I was cured, and had it not been for my own imprudence in eating, I doubt whether the disease would ever have returned. I most cheerfully and earnestly recommend it to every one who has suffered from the ravages and horrors of this terrible disease. Yours, truly,

J. W. NIEL, M. D.

"VERY MODEST."

[From H. M. T. Smith, Dunkirk, N. Y.]

DUNKIRK, N. Y., May 1, 1868.

GENTS—I inclose your circular. I know of two parties—wives of prominent citizens in this place—who have been greatly benefitted, if not cured, by the use of your Dyspeptic Cure, but they will not consent to the public use of their names. And thus the matter rests, with a steadily increasing sale.

Yours, respectfully,

H. M. T. SMITH.

"REPUTATION GAINING."

[From Rev. Allen Crowell, Brookville, Pa.]

LUTHERSBURG, PA., May 2, 1867.

Mr. JOSEPH FLEMING:

SIR—"Coe's Dyspepsia Cure" is gaining a reputation amongst our people. The medicine already used is having the desired effect. A friend wishes me to get a bottle for him, for which I send you $1. Send to my address, as soon as possible.

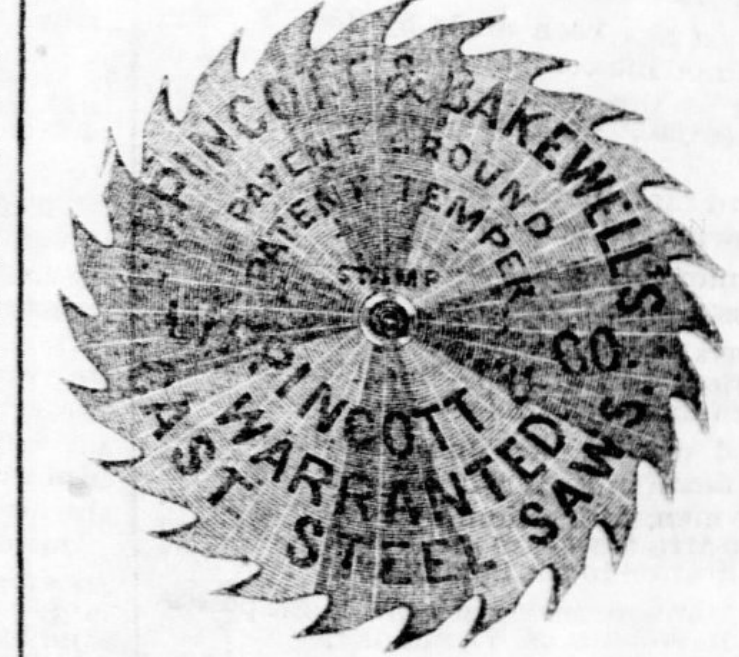
GET A GOOD SAW.



And Your Mill will do Good Work

Our Saws are Oil Tempered, Patent Ground, made to Run well.

You will find each Saw of one Temper as Hard and Soft Spots in the same Saw.
We accomplish this by our Patent Tempering Process, and you can not get this from any other Saw Maker, as we own the Patents for the United States.
We do not claim to make a cheaper Saw than any one else, but one that will run at the most, and will give no trouble, and will keep round longer, because being uniform with Temper, it will not wear on one side faster than the other.
We invite correspondence, or an interview with the practical man of your firm.

PROPOSALS.

TO RAILWAY CONTRACTORS

The Graduation, Masonry and Ballasting of the following enumerated sections of the Pittsburgh and Connellsville Railroad are advertised for contract, and Proposals for the same will be received at the Company's office, in Pittsburgh, up to the 20th of September inclusive, commencing at the Uniontown Branch Junction, about a mile east of Connellsville. Sections 59 to 64 inclusive. Then sections 65, 73, 74, 76, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 106, 110, 112, 115, 116, 117, 118, 119, 122, 128, 129, 130, 133, 140. All of these sections are in the Valley of the Youghiogheny river, up to section 112 inclusive. Sections 115, 116, 117, are on the summit, and embrace the Sand Patch Tunnel, and the remainder are in the Valley of Wills Creek, section 140 being about five miles from Cumberland.

Specifications of the work on the above sections will be ready for delivery on the 1st of September at the offices of the Company at Pittsburgh and Cumberland, where Contractors will obtain all necessary information to enable them to examine the line. The Company reserves the right to reject all or a part of any bid.

THE SCULLING CHAMPIONSHIP.

The Race To-Morrow—The Course Selected—Brown's Judges—No Referee Yet Chosen.

The long talked of sculling championship race between Henry Coulter and Walter Brown will take place over the upper Monongahela course to-morrow afternoon, between four and six o'clock, and considerable interest is being manifested in the result. Coulter took his regular pulls on the upper Monongahela yesterday, and is in excellent trim. Brown also took a pull over the water between Dam No. 1 and Dam No. 2, and expressed himself more dissatisfied than ever with the course rowed over by Coulter and McKiel—between Glenwood and Dam No. 1. As a matter of courtesy, Jimmy Hamill yesterday extended Brown the use of his headquarters—the Dryden Boat House, near the Pan Handle Railroad—during his stay, and Brown has placed his boat therein. Brown has selected as his judges, his backer, John Tyler, Jr., of Boston, Mass., and J. W. Kendall, of Portland, Maine, who accompany him. Coulter has not yet announced his judges, but will do so to-day. [illegible]

Reopening of Professor De Long's Dancing Academy.

Our readers will learn with pleasure that Professor De Long has determined to make Pittsburgh his permanent residence, and will reopen his dancing academy at Lafayette Hall on the 3d of October, at 3 P. M., with a grand Matinee. He has also engaged Wilkin's Hall for Gents classes, and will open on October 1st at 8 P. M. Professor De Long is one of the most accomplished teachers in the United States. He can be consulted daily between 10 and 12 A. M. at Lafayette Hall.

Choice Country Residence.

Thursday, September 10th, at half-past two o'clock P. M., that desirable residence and grounds of Rev. Ensworth will be sold by auction on the premises. Parties desiring to secure a pleasant home in a good location and excellent neighborhood will find it to their advantage to attend the sale. See advertisement of H. B. Smithson & Co. Auctioneers.

Fine Watches, Clocks, Jewelry.

Fancy goods, show cases, safe, &c., by auction, at 37 Ohio street, Allegheny, commencing on Wednesday (to-morrow), at 7½ P. M., and continuing daily at 10 A. M., 2 and 7½ P. M. until all are disposed of. See Palmer & Phillips's advertisement, in Auction Column, for particulars.

What we Admire Most.

Nothing is so much admired in man or woman as style and easy manners in society, and there is no way of acquiring these qualities so well as to place ourselves under an accomplished teacher of dancing. Prof. Cowper is well known in this city as an experienced and thoroughly accomplished teacher of this art. His academy is now open at 54 Fifth avenue. Circulars can be obtained at the music stores.

Furniture at Auction.

Thursday, September 10th, at 10 A. M. and 2 P. M., large sales at Smithson's Auction Rooms, 55 and 57 Fifth avenue. Persons having furniture to dispose of will send it in on or before Wednesday. See advertisement.

The Boat Race Headquarters.

The fine steamboat Ida Rees will carry passengers to and from the Boat Race on Wednesday. Round trip 50 cents. She will leave the foot of Grant street, at 2½ o'clock P. M., and be commanded by Captain Rees. As the race will take place above Glenwood, no better view of it can be obtained than on this boat. A brass band will accompany the excursionists and a police force will be on board.

The Celebrated Walter Grape.

After twenty-five years experience with the present tender, and late varieties we know the Walter, now first offered, will restore confidence in Grape raising. It never rots. Its abundant sugar raisins it in-doors or on the vine; it is a great grower and bearer, and now contains 146 clusters of bloom; is very compact in cluster as in the East, which is an advantage in marketing. We have not known the foliage to mildew. It succeeds in dry and very wet soil. Is a seedling of the Delaware, crossed with the Diana, and better than either. Ripens before the Hartford, therefore, the earliest, hardiest and best variety. No. 1, one year, $5 each, in advance. Orders filled in rotation, while supply lasts. No charge for packing. Send stamp for beautiful cut and opinions of many vineyards.

DR. SARGENT'S BACKACHE PILLS

A CERTAIN AND RELIABLE REMEDY FOR ALL DISEASES OF THE Kidneys, Bladder and Urinary Organs.

Any derangement or obstruction of these Organs is quickly followed by acute suffering, which, if not corrected immediately, will be followed by the most disastrous consequences. Nature herself will not rally from any prostration of these organs, but must be assisted by the use of a Diuretic; as such

DR. SARGENT'S BACKACHE PILLS

Stand pre-eminent, having proved themselves superior to any medicine yet discovered for affections of the Kidneys, &c.

Read the following testimony in their favor:

GEO. A. KELLY—Dear Sir: I was so badly afflicted with pain in the kidneys that I could hardly turn myself in bed, and breathing also caused me severe pain. I had given up hopes of ever getting well again, when I bought a box of Dr. SARGENT'S BACKACHE PILLS, which at once relieved me, and I believe they have been the means of the cure. I have also recommended them to others where like complaints were made, and they have in every case proved efficacious. I cheerfully recommend them to any one suffering from this trouble, as I believe they are the best medicine for this class of diseases I have ever heard of. Any further information can be obtained by seeing me at Outer Depot, Pennsylvania Railroad, or at my residence, No. 55 Arthurs street.
